The Progression team at Leeds Arts University is pleased to present a dedicated webpage for online creative activities for students. The handouts can be downloaded and include step by step instructions for each activity. Please follow this link to visit the webpage and learn more about the online activities: www.leeds-art.ac.uk/about-us/progression-widening-participation/creative-activities/ The page will continue to be updated with more handouts - so please do keep checking in on the page to see what is new!

Progression Online Arts Summer School – Monday 27 July to Thursday 30 July

The University's Online Progression Summer School is being held over four days from Monday 27 July to Thursday 30 July, with a closing date for applications of 15 July, for Students in Years 10-13 who are interested in the Creative Arts. For more information and an application form please contact: progression@leeds-art.ac.uk

The course content will then remain accessible on the website throughout August so any students who sign up but can't take part over the 4 days can still take part at their own convenience, in their own time over the summer.

This free online Summer School will feature pre-recorded creative activities accompanied by video tutorials and downloadable handouts from inspiring Progression Support Workers to follow along with at home. They will guide students through ways to improve their drawing, design and making skills as well as providing information and support for students who are planning to apply for a creative subject at college or university. Each day will feature video presentations by Leeds Arts University undergraduate student ambassadors, who will share their experiences of studying at Leeds Arts University and their top tips for the application process, careers in the creative industries and showcasing examples of their work.

As is this is online, the activities will require internet access to be able to view and download the content; this is why Parent/Carer consent is sought on the application form. Parents, carers are most welcome to join in and enjoy the virtual arts creative experience.

The summer school will only require basic materials (for example paper, pencils, pens, scissors, Sellotape or glue and some general household items such as coffee, string and pieces of card from packaging). The activities will not be using any specialist art materials. Unfortunately materials cannot be provided for students in light of current circumstances at this time.

As the team are working remotely, postal applications cannot be received but the application form can be filled in online and returned as a document back via email by Wednesday July 15th 2020 (5pm) progression@leeds-art.ac.uk.

Participants will be sent joining details by email on the morning of each day. But, students are more than welcome to view the content and then participate in the activities at another time flexible to their availability. They are also encouraged to give feedback and evidence their participation through the surveys, quizzes, asking questions to the team through the Q & A form and by emailing photos of their work to the team at Progression@Leeds-art.ac.uk. If participants provide evidence of engaging with each of the 4 days of activity the University will email Certificates of Participation in the 2020 Progression Online Arts Summer School.

Paramedic Science Webinar

The University has a fantastic webinar on the 10 July:

How Paramedic students have contributed to the Covid-19 Pandemic

10 July 2020 15:30pm - 16:30pm

The University of Bradford programme is a 4 year degree and in Year 3 the students are out working for a year. The University's first year students have volunteered to help out in various roles in the NHS.

This presentation will talk about the roles that students are working in and how the University has prepared them for that.
